

Albert Cecil Beyer, age 30
6/10/1879 – 4/10/1910

Burial location in St. Mary Cemetery is PRESUMED to be in N3-04-04. No markers are found for him or his wife, Mathilde Olivari Beyer. However, his brother, Henry Hood Beyer and his daughter, Alberta Eugenia Beyer, are buried here and have markers. Need confirmation from relatives.

Obituary was published in the Sea Coast Echo on 4/16/1910. He died 3 days before his daughter, Alberta, was born.

DEATH OF ALBERT C. BEYER.

On the Lord's Day, last Sabbath, after the twilight shadows had ebbed into night with its star-like splendor, like a shedding glory and as though welcoming the return of a soul to its Maker, the spirit of Albert C. Beyer took its flight in the transition from things mundane to the ethereal sphere. The passing of the young spirit through this transitory state was marked by a peaceful and calm fortitude and a Christian resignation that was sublime. A Roman Catholic in religion, he had practiced the tenets of his faith with fervor and consistency, and shortly before physical dissolution set in he received the full sacraments of his church—a comfort to his loved ones who surrounded the bedside and a blessing and benefit to those children of God whom He thus favors.

Albert C. Beyer, had he lived to June

Albert C. Beyer, had he lived to June this year, would have been thirty-one years of age. He was born at Fort Bayard, New Mexico, and was a son of C. D. Beyer, Esq., who departed this life in 1898, and Mrs. Beyer, a resident of Bay St. Louis. He was one of a family of seven sons. Those who survive him are Charles Beyer, of Mexico; Edward and Harry Beyer, of Bay St. Louis; Vincent Beyer, of Ocean Springs, Miss.; George Beyer, of Decatur, Ala.; and Percy Beyer, of Winnsboro, La.

Scarcely a year since, the deceased was wedded to Miss Mathilde Olivari, daughter of Hon. L. Olivari, of Bay St. Louis, who, with the bereaved mother and brothers, survives him. He was taken ill during the beginning of the present year, and all that medical skill could do to alleviate his sufferings and bring about his recovery was resorted to, but to no avail. These attentions were supplemented by the unceasing ministrations of the solicitous mother and equally devoted wife, both of whose tender solicitude stood forth conspicuously as a tribute of womanly devotion, love and unselfishness. But this, too, proved futile, for a Wisdom Infinite had willed otherwise, and in the spirit of "Thy will be done" submissive heads are bowed low in acquiescence.

The funeral took place from the family residence, in Front street, Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and was, in point of attendance and in the extent of the line of carriages, one of the largest in local history. The cortege extended from the late residence to the Church of Our Lady of the Gulf along Front street. It was, indeed, along Front street. It was, indeed, a splendid manifestation of esteem, regard and respect—this vast throng and outpouring of friends and acquaintances—all with a similar and united object of paying respectful homage to the memory of the deceased and in sympathy for the crushed hearts of the relatives. The funeral rites were conducted by Rev. Father J. M. Prendergast at the house, church and St. Mary's Cemetery, where the mortal remains were laid "at rest" in the family vault.

The pall bearers were: Hon. Gaston G. Gardebled, George Planchet, J. Ed. O'Malley, Arthur Johnston, Sam Baricat, Frank Hymel.

The beautiful casket was laden with natural roses, and the last resting place teemed with a wealth of these mute, yet living and eloquent messengers of love and sympathy.

The deceased was well and popularly known, and no young man had more acquaintances and friends than he. Of a genial and sunshiny disposition, a gentleman by birth and of splendid breeding, he was much esteemed and highly regarded by all who knew him. His talents were varied; endowed musically, he was also gifted with some histrionic ability and other accomplishments.

Deceased was a valued member of the Bay St. Louis branch of the National Benevolent Society, the members of which, as a final and deep mark of respect, attended the funeral in a body.

The Echo sympathizes profoundly with the bereaved mother, wife and brothers in the dark hour of their earthly sorrow.

BORN — To Mrs. Widow Albert C. Beyer, a daughter, Wednesday morning, April 13, 1910.
